

Life is not perfect, but your seats can be!

The right seats can make a big difference in the use and enjoyment of your vehicle. Whether a daily driver, offroad adventurer or long-range hauler, Scheel-Mann has a seat to suit your needs, preferences and budget.

They are all built at the same family-owned production facility in Germany and share many design features. There is quite a range in cost to meet your budget – with base prices ranging from $999 (the Sportline F) to $1,699 (the Vario F).

So how do you choose?

Let's start with some research and an eye toward your specific needs and use – keeping cost in mind. Here are some preliminary questions:

- What vehicle do you have to fit?
- Why are you considering new seats?
- How will you use your vehicle?
- Do you like a “tight fit” or a more relaxed seating environment?
- How is your back? Do you get tired or sore on long road trips or after a day on the trail? How tall are you?
- What budget do you have in mind?
- What features do you need or want in your new seats?

Premium seating is an investment.

Getting connected.

Vehicle installation requires use of third-party seat brackets designed to fit the new seats to your vehicle, along with seat sliders to adjust the seat location for each driver. In some cases, the original vehicle sliders may be reused and in others, an aftermarket replacement is required. Long Range America stocks popular brackets and sliders to meet your needs.

It is also necessary for most vehicles to add aftermarket air bag emulators to allow the new seat to work with your vehicle's air bag safety systems. We will work with you to help source necessary components for that need.

Partial fitment listing.

Following is a partial list of vehicles for which mounting brackets and sliders are available. More will be added.

If you have questions about your vehicle build plan or do not see your vehicle listed, please call Ward to discuss what we can do to get you fitted.
